

Endress+Hauser Italy celebrates 50 years

The specialist for measurement and automation technology has been supporting customers in Italy from its own sales center for 50 years, developing the country into one of the Group's strongest sales markets in this time.

Endress+Hauser has established itself as a major player in the Italian industrial landscape since its creation in 1974. "We can look back on five exciting decades, during which the requirements of the market have steadily changed. But one thing has not changed: we have consistently supported our customers with innovative solutions – and we will continue to be a reliable partner in the future," says Ivano Mazzoletti, managing director of Endress+Hauser Italy and corporate sales director for Central Europe.

Endress+Hauser has maintained a presence in Italy with its own sales center since 1974, a period in which it recorded continuous growth. A key milestone was the diversification of the business and the industry-based alignment of the sales organization. The sales center has achieved notable results with products for gas analysis since 2017. In addition, the service and solutions business has enjoyed above-average growth and heavily expanded its customer training and calibration service offerings.

Ivano Mazzoletti expressed his appreciation on the occasion of the anniversary celebration to the employees, all of whom were invited to the event. "The fruits of our activities are of course our products. But it's our employees who help bring them to maturity through their hard work and enthusiasm." Endress+Hauser Italy currently has around 240 employees, primarily in the food, water & wastewater and chemical industries. The headquarters is located near Milan in Cernusco sul Naviglio, with additional sales offices in Venice, Turin, Modena, Macerata and Rome. Close partnerships are also maintained with sales representatives in southern Italy, Sardinia and Sicily.
